

Conference "High-k oxides by ALD"

Hotel Jasek Premium, Wrocław, Poland, March 7th - 10th, 2018

About the conference

In collaboration with the EU COST networking project HerALD, Institute of Physics, Polish Academy of Sciences invites you to the next edition of the conference "High-k oxides by ALD", which will be held in Wrocław, Poland, on March 7-10, 2018. New challenges offered by the application of ALD based high-k dielectric materials in nanotechnology will be discussed by more than 80 participants from industry, research institutes and universities.

The conference is continuation of NaMLab workshops - a stimulating European platform for application-oriented scientists to exchange ideas and discuss latest experimental results on process technology, new results in the field of ALD-grown dielectrics for solar cells, transparent conduction oxides (TCOs), and for silicon based micro- and nano-electronics. The 2018 edition is organized in Poland to increase integration between Eastern and Western Europe countries.

The conference is co-organized by the Polish Vacuum Society.
